IASF was established by three professional engineers who recognized a significant gap in the market for turnkey solutions in the surface finishing, surface treatment, dust and fume extraction, and mineral processing industries. Our mission is to deliver high-quality solutions on time and within budget, ensuring exceptional customer satisfaction and robust after-sales support—all at a competitive cost.

Turning Your Vision into Reality

At IASF, we specialize in taking projects from concept to commissioning, making us your trusted turnkey solutions provider. Our commitment to delivering projects on time and within budget sets us apart in the industry. Every project, regardless of size, is treated as our most important endeavour.

Expertise You Can Trust

Our team is composed of highly motivated professionals with over 55 years of collective experience in plant engineering. We understand the importance of commitment and efficiency. To ensure technical and managerial excellence, qualified engineers are appointed as project managers for each project.

Bridging the Gap

We identified a critical need for industrial-quality equipment that fits within budget constraints. To address this, we offer consulting services, allowing clients to manufacture and install their plants with our expert project management and engineering support.

Collaborative Approach

When providing our turnkey or EPC solutions, we involve the client’s representative throughout the entire process—from concept to commissioning. This collaborative approach fosters teamwork and ensures customer satisfaction through effective communication and transparency.
