Luxury resort tents, garden structures, poolside shades, canopies, and outdoor seating covers can create distinctive environments for guests. These structures can be customized according to the resort's layout, available space, architectural theme, and intended application. Tensile systems can be used for dining areas, lounges, pathways, recreational spaces, event areas, and poolside facilities. Material selection, ventilation, drainage, structural support, and access are important considerations for hospitality projects. DTH also provides prefabricated and customized outdoor structures that can support different resort requirements.
