Frontline Food Consultants & Engineers (FFCE) is a trusted food consultant helping startups, entrepreneurs and established manufacturers develop, manufacture and scale innovative food and beverage products. Our team of experienced food technologists, engineers and industry experts offers end-to-end food consultancy services, from initial concept to commercial production.

As an experienced food formulation consultant, FFCE specializes in New Product Development and recipe formulation, helping businesses convert innovative ideas into commercially viable products. We work across dairy, bakery and confectionery, snacks, frozen foods, spices, sauces, ready-to-eat and ready-to-cook foods, nutraceuticals and functional foods, and plant-based products. As a beverage formulation consultant, we also develop juices, energy drinks, RTS beverages, premixes and alcoholic beverages.

For businesses planning a manufacturing facility, we offer food factory setup and turnkey project consultancy, including plant layout, process selection, machinery and equipment requirements, capacity planning and packaging solutions.

By combining food science, engineering and industry experience, FFCE understands each client's product, target market and investment goals before recommending the right strategy. Whether you're launching a new product, setting up a processing plant or expanding your portfolio, FFCE turns your food business ideas into market-ready success.
