WOTR, or the Watershed Organisation Trust, is an NGO dedicated to fighting rural poverty in India. Established over three decades ago, WOTR works directly with local communities to restore degraded ecosystems and improve livelihoods. By focusing on sustainable practices in agriculture, water management, and health, WOTR empowers people to take control of their environments. They run programs that support women's empowerment, enhance nutrition, and build self-help groups to foster financial independence. With a hands-on approach, WOTR has positively impacted millions, transforming lives in over 7,000 villages across 10 states and creating vibrant and sustainable communities for a better future. Donate today to support sustainable agriculture and livelihoods for women, building healthier and more resilient communities.
