Panchakarma is one of the most effective natural Ayurvedic detoxification procedures, expelling body toxins through several methods. The human body is similar to a machine, and just as a device requires cleaning and lubricating from time to time to increase efficiency and quality, so does our body. There is little room for relaxing in modern life, complete with pressures and chaos. Toxin levels in the body rise due to a lack of physical exercise, the consumption of unhealthy foods, and habits such as smoking or drinking alcohol. The toxic build-up is linked to several chronic conditions, including diabetes, heart disease, and even cancer.
