About us:

Thinking Forks is a creative food innovation and product development company that helps businesses turn great food ideas into successful products. Based in Bangalore, we work with food and beverage brands of all sizes, from ambitious startups to established global companies—helping them research, design, develop, and scale products that people love. Our mission is simple: to make food innovation faster, smarter, and more sustainable.

At Thinking Forks, we offer complete support across every stage of food innovation. From idea generation and recipe development to packaging design, manufacturing, and scale-up, our team combines science, creativity, and real-world market insight to deliver products that work in both taste and business. Whether you want to create a healthy snack, a plant-based alternative, a functional beverage, or a new ready-to-eat concept, we bring your vision to life with speed and precision.

Our experienced R&D chefs, food technologists, and strategists have worked across categories like bakery, dairy, beverages, nutrition, and convenience foods. We understand the challenges of shelf life, flavor, texture, and consumer trends, and we help you solve them efficiently. With our modern innovation center in Bangalore and partnerships across the global food ecosystem, we make it easy for brands to experiment, test, and launch with confidence.

Sustainability is at the heart of what we do. We focus on reducing waste, improving nutritional quality, and using smarter ingredients and processes that are better for people and the planet.

If you're looking for a trusted food innovation partner with good in-field experience who can support your journey from idea to launch, Thinking Forks is here to help. Explore how our end-to-end food R&D, product development, and consulting services can accelerate your growth and help you stay ahead in a fast-changing food world.
